VOLUNTEER UPDATE

Hello. I am Masaki Yamaoka, a JICA Volunteer working in Kabalega Secondary School in Masindi District as a computer instructor. I also lead students in music club as extracurricular activity. We composed a song with my students. One of our original tune is "Champion". At first my students requested me to create "party tune", and I tried to create a beat by using my computer software. In this process I imagined Ugandan music which I listen to in a bus from my town Masindi to Kampala. Students recorded vocal part on this "party tune" beat.

During the holiday, we got together to record in a classroom using only one laptop. We do not have a professional equipment for recording, so it was difficult to record high quality sound but, we managed to make our original tune. We also recorded music video at the student's prom party. We got to perform on a live talk show at a radio station in Masindi twice. In this live talk show, we introduced our original song "Champion" and we talked about our music club and future activities. I hope this experience will be unforgettable for my students.

JAPANESE NGO SCENE IN UGANDA

MILLENNIUM PROMISE JAPAN (MPJ)

NGO PROFILE NO. 7

Millennium Promise Japan (MPJ)<sup>1</sup> started psychosocial support program for South Sudanese refugees in the Bidi Bidi Settlement in May 2018, and we are implementing this year's project since June 2019 with kind support by SARAYA and the Japanese Government.

One of our main activities is a series of workshops targeting school children who have gone through severe experience back in South Sudan. During the workshop session, children were asked to express his/her unforgettable memories through different type of art works such as painting, modeling clay, and even music, and these memories were shared with other children. This process is quite important as it will be a prevention of PTSD<sup>2</sup> or any associated mental illness, and will support them to manage their feelings and live positively.

For the children's workshop, the climax moment came at the "music session" where Dr. Kuwayama, one of the most famous experts of Psychosocial Care in Japan, joined the project and conducted workshops. There, children created a song composed of 3 parts – past, present, and future – and they sang the song with Dr. Kuwayama's guitar. For these special sessions, Ms. Rieko Suzuki, the president of SPJ, visited the project from Japan. The Japanese Ambassador to Uganda, Mr. Kameda also paid a visit to our project and joined the music workshops.

We have also provided several workshops for the parents of those targeted children as well as school teachers. During the workshops, we realized that many of the parents and teachers, who play critical roles for children's psychosocial care at home and at school, had noticed some problem in the children but didn't have knowledge on how to deal with the situation.

Although our current project will end by the end of September, MPJ will continue the psychosocial support program in Bidi Bidi Settlement with more different contents in the future.

 $\boldsymbol{1}$  In Japan, MPJ has been changed its registered name into SDGs Promise Japan.
